RECRUITING OPPORTUNITIES

Business Career Expo – Held every fall during Business Career Week, this recruiting event gives employers direct access to one of the nation’s best talent pools – Florida State University business students – and provides an informal forum for students and employers to meet and talk about full-time, part-time and internship opportunities. Company representatives will have even more student talent to recruit now that the College of Business hosts three of its highly successful career fairs – Business Career Expo, Insurance Days and Seminole Sales Showcase – simultaneously in the same location. Open to freshman- through graduate-level business students, the expo is an opportunity to begin or strengthen your company’s presence on campus during a week fully dedicated to student engagement, professional development and recruiting opportunities.

Business Career Week – The College of Business Career Week, held every spring, is designed for business students to explore career options, learn about company culture, network with employers and enhance career readiness. Students can network and learn from employers, alumni and fellow students during the week’s virtual and in-person activities.

Accounting Freshmen/ Sophomore Celebration –

This casual event allows select accounting firms to meet freshman and sophomore accounting majors between classes to discuss internships and career paths with recruiters early in their studies.

AIS Meet the Firms – Held every fall and spring semester prior to Seminole Futures, this event coordinated by the Association for Information Systems (AIS) allows its members to meet with firms interested in hiring management information systems (MIS) majors.

Employer of the Day (EOD)

– Recruiting companies are invited to campus for a day to interact with students in classes, with student organizations, in information sessions and by staffing corporate information tables in the College of Business. Our team builds out robust recruiting schedules to ensure companies are meeting with the ideal student prospects.

Case Competitions – Case competitions offer students an opportunity to develop and enhance analytical abilities, critical-thinking skills, and leadership and business skills, along with presentation and persuasion abilities. For recruiters and industry leaders, case competitions provide an extraordinary opportunity to discover the best and brightest students, while finding solutions to important issues facing the business community.

The college hosts numerous case competitions throughout the academic year and invites recruiters and industry executives to serve as judges and provide case studies for the competitions.

HR Employer Networking Night – Select employers are invited to participate in a human resource trends panel discussion and networking reception with human resource management (HRM) and management majors.

Insurance Days – Held every spring semester, this two-and-a-half day event allows risk management/insurance (RMI) students to learn about companies and career opportunities. It also provides a venue for recruiters to conduct on-campus interviews.

Real Estate Speed Connections* – This session, which is part of the annual FSU Real Estate TRENDS Conference, enables prospective employers to meet with real estate students for recruiting.

Seminole Sales Showcase* – A two-day event that celebrates the sales profession, includes a career fair open to all business students, a “Speed Selling” competition, a networking event and a sales role-play competition.

**These events are exclusively available to recruiters who partner directly with the FSU Real Estate Center and the FSU Sales Institute, respectively.*

BUSINESS JOB BOARD

Employers looking for enthusiastic interns and new employees ready to hit the ground running will find the task a little easier with the college's online Business Job Board. Companies can connect directly with business students by submitting an online form to advertise internships, part-time and full-time positions. The site allows employers to showcase position descriptions, job responsibilities and preferred skill sets and major, if applicable. Students review the posted jobs on a password-protected website and can filter their searches to seek out opportunities for their major and preferred type of position.

Submit your job or internship opportunity at business.fsu.edu/submitjob.
